The perfect duo

A playful arrangement of warm and cool: ruby red and graphite grey, the new cosy pair of colours in Nimbus's Roxxane Leggera CL range, bring vitality, light and colour to interiors.

When light is produced without a cable and is independent of power sources, it opens up opportunities for creative freedom and gives interior fittings an inspiring impulse. The Nimbus Group's range of cableless luminaires creates a thousand and one possibilities for placing the desired light source in a favourite spot and, for example, enjoying the pleasant lighting atmosphere in a reading niche, in the bath tub, while cooking or out on the sun-warmed terrace.

The two "new guys": strong contrast in ruby red and graphite grey

Two "new guys" recently joined the ranks: the slim-line duo Roxxane Leggera CL in ruby red and graphite grey. Together they form a cosy pair of colours: not run-of-the-mill, compelling yet harmonious. The user simply picks them up by the discreet handle and places them wherever they are needed. Close together, at a distance or totally separate. Whatever suits any particular moment best. Or they can even be taken outdoors when the weather is fine.

Light and colour for lively rooms

Interior design frequently works with contrasts to lend rooms an air of liveliness and balance: starkly contrasting black and white, hard and soft materials such as wood and concrete or subdued and bright colours play with one another, whereby no other colour has such a sensuous, warm and energy-laden impact as red. Ruby red has a strong yet warm charisma. In the words of the in-house design team: "To balance this effect, we have placed a powerful and yet discreet graphite grey by its side, which lends the duo a dignified and clean look. Together they add a special touch to fittings and furniture – well dosed red surprises the eye and gives warmth; cool grey has a distinguished look and is currently en vogue as THE colour for furniture and kitchens. The perfect mixture of a bold statement colour and cosy elegance for every ambience." The design team comprises several members and, in collaboration with Häfele, develops innovative light solutions at the location in Stuttgart, focusing on holistic room and lighting design.

Incidentally, Roxxane Leggera CL is extremely light and delightful to handle. Should the light go out after many hours of use, it can be docked onto its charging station in a simple plug-and-play operation and, within just a short time, is ready to deliver its powerful light again.
